

Stop passing-the-buck, making excuses for not doing things, and ignoring real-necessity requests for help and assistance to people who don't have the luxury to live within the much-better-catered-to people of Sydney and suburbs; such as those who need better/repared/updated infrastructure in outer areas, such as the Blue Mountains; including - particularly: the frail, the disabled, the elderly, pedestrians, pram pushers, wheel-chair users and pushers, carers for the above.

Your rhetoric of care and 'proposed' productivity, and your random crocodile-tears no long do not fool most voters anymore.

Be pro-active and do, don't just talk and 'plan' and still do nothing.

Try impressing the population, especially before you deluge us with smarmy self-patting on the back. You may even get more votes that way, if you tried to be more genuine.
